

Quilt of Remembrance

Northern Ireland quilt, by WAVE trauma centre participants, 2010 - 2013

Photograph: WAVE Archive

This quilt, the work of a cross-community group of WAVE participants, was created over a four year period. Spanning four decades it depicts life before The Troubles in 1969, portrays key events during The Troubles and closes with the Good Friday Agreement in 1998.

Here women portray their deeply personal experiences of The Troubles and their journey to healing. In the words of one participant: "I have been on a journey of healing and this quilt has been a big part of it."

In this collective work: pain, suffering and trauma coupled with a great sense of strength, solidarity, hope for, and commitment to, a better future based on mutual understanding and respect find expression.

Courtesy of WAVE trauma centre

Source:

Accounts of the Conflict (archive)

Bacic, Roberta. (individual compiler)

Conflict Textiles (collection)

<http://accounts.ulster.ac.uk/repo/collections/show/153>